Interview: Raymond Loretan, President – Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève

Interview: Mr. Raymond Loretan, President of the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) – The man with a bird's-eye-view of the luxury watchmaking industry.

Earlier last month, Ethos Watches, India's leading chain of luxury watch boutiques hosted what is popularly known as the "Oscars of Watchmaking" – The Fondation du Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) in Delhi, India. They exhibited the 84 shortlisted nominees from 12 categories and safe to say, we had the industry's most exquisite and talked-about watches, all under one roof. It's an annual celebration of the spirit of watchmaking and its many values – Innovation, creativity, precision, and passion. While recognizing the talent and efforts of watchmakers from across the world who consistently strive to push the limits of horlogerie and embrace its mechanical mastery, the GPHG, year-on-year, also sets new standards for the industry and exhibits its direction.

The Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) is often lauded as the industry's top awards show, much like the Oscars are for the film industry, or Michelin stars are for our deserving chefs and restaurateurs. This year's GPHG 2022 awards was held on Thursday 10 November in Geneva's Théâtre du Léman, and were hosted by French actor Edouard Baer.

The winners are chosen after careful deliberation by the GPHG Academy, a group of 650 key figures in the profession globally, and the 2022 Jury, which this year is chaired by renowned author and collector Nick Foulkes.

How Furlan Marri went from Kickstarter to GPHG winner in seven months

What did you achieve during the pandemic? For most of us, when we look back at the last couple of years of lockdowns and sabotaged plans, the answer to that question is "precious little". Unless, of course, you count gaining 5kg, drinking reckless amounts of gin and becoming pathetically addicted to Wordle. Andrea Furlan, however, took a different tack. For the 29-year-old Swiss designer, COVID was a period of frantic overachievement. Alongside his partner, Hamad Al Marri, he created a brand-new watch brand from scratch. But Furlan Marri was hardly your average Kickstarter-funded microbrand. In the space of one year, Andrea and Hamad have enjoyed great critical success that culminated in winning the Horological Revelation Prize at the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Geneve. And they did that with a brand that was largely created in Andrea's bedroom. How on earth did they manage it?

MB&F Sequential EVO takes home the "Aiguille d'Or" Grand Prix prize at 2022 GPHG Awards

Editor's Note: Yesterday, the 2022 Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) was held. For those who don't know, it is basically the Oscars of watchmaking. But while there are many prizes to win, one stands above the rest: the "Aiguille d'Or" Grand Prix prize. And this year's winner is the MB&F, Legacy Machine Sequential EVO. So we've decided to turn back time to our review of the watch earlier this year, and we think after reading it you will really understand why the watch took home the Grand Prix prize.

Every year at the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie Genève watchmakers compete to take home a medal for their engineering and craftsmanship. This year, several brands were taking home not one but two medals. MB&F, Hermès, Bulgari and Van Cleef & Arpels were all double winners at the 2022 Grand Prix d'Horlogerie Genève.

The top prize, the Aiguille d'or Grand Prix, was awarded to MB&F (Max Büsser & Friends) for the Legacy Machine Sequential Evo, a dual chronograph with two complete chronographs that allow multiple timing modes: split-second, independent, lap timer and even a "chess match" timing mode, a combination of functions never seen before in a chronograph. It has a world-first patented "twinverter" binary switch that switches the start/stop status of the LM Sequential EVO's dual chronographs simultaneously. Each chronograph can be started, stopped, and reset completely independently of the other, using the start/stop and reset pushers on their respective sides of the case. The manual wound movement, created by Belfast watchmaker Stephen McDonnell, to whom busser refers as "a genius," also incorporates a special amplitude regulating system that saves energy, even when both chronographs are running.

MB&F also won the Challenge prize, awarded to a watch priced under $3,500 (now selling for up to $14,000 on the secondary market), for its M.A.D.1 Red, conceived for MB&F friends and "tribe members." It has a luminated lateral time display running along the case side and, on the dial side, an openworked triple-blade winding rotor that spins over a red background ring, with a touch of Super-Luminova to add drama

On Nov. 4, 2021, a Shenzhen-based watch brand stunned the Swiss watchmaking establishment and the jury, beating five different contenders to take home the award in the Challenge Watch Category of the Grand Prix d’Horlogerie de Genève (G.P.H.G.).

CIGA Design, a home-grown watchmaker based in Taoyuan Subdistrict, Nanshan District, became the first Chinese brand to win a Grand Prix prize. The annual awards event, commonly known as the Grand Prix, is often described as “the Oscars of watchmaking.”

已是GPHG頒獎典禮常客的MB&F，終於以設有兩組計時機制的Legacy Machine Sequential Evo擊敗各家好手，奪下最高榮譽的金指針大獎，獲獎關鍵在於創新的Twinverter 按把切換自如的能力，錶款能測量起訖時間不同的多個活動「獨立計時」、測量兩個同時開始但停止時間不同活動的「同步計

毎年恒例のウォッチ・グランプリ、GPHG(Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève)2022の各部門と、そのエントリー・ウォッチが発表となった。

今年の部門は、以下の15部門で、計254モデルがエントリーした。

GPHGはよく、時計のアカデミー賞という比喻で語られることが多いが、最近は少しずつその形を変えつつある。映画のアカデミー賞はアカデミーに属する会員がその年の公開作から候補を選び審査されるのだが、GPHGではほぼ自薦でエントリーする形態が主流となりつつあるからだ。それは映画で言えば、製作会社が各賞に自社の映画をノミネートするようなものだから、その年度を象徴するようなどんなに素晴らしい作品であっても、製作ブランドがエントリーしなければ審査の対象にはならない。

ということで、ここ数年のGPHGは、年間の最優秀作品を決める場というよりも、腕に覚えのあるブランドや新興のブランドがその真価を世に問う場となっている。

しかも自薦の場合、複数の新作を該当する各部門にバシバシとノミネートするブランドもあれば、新作の中から自信の一本だけを選んでノミネートするブランドなど、会社によってそのエントリー傾向も異なってくる。

恒例のウォッチ・グランプリ、GPHG(Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève)2022の各部門と、そのエントリー・ウォッチ全254モデルを先日8日付記事で紹介したが、審査は済み、このたび全15部門の最終候補が発表となった。

前の記事でも触れたが、以前は"時計のアカデミー賞"という比喻で語られることが多かったGPHGだが、最近はその新対象が年間に発表された全モデルではなく、自薦でエントリーする形がほぼその主流となりつつあるため、ここ数年のGPHGは、年間の最優秀作品を決める場というよりも、腕に覚えのあるブランドや新興のブランドがその真価を世に問う場となっている。

そのためか今年は特に、ここでの評価を次のステップにつなげたい野心的な新興勢力の、自らの現在地や評価を確認するような出品が目につくことが特長と言えるかもしれない。

では全部門の最終エントリー作品を紹介する。

All the winning timepieces at GPHG 2022, the Oscars of Watchmaking

BY STEPHANIE IP, MANAGING EDITOR | 16 NOV 2022

The Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) is often lauded as the industry's top awards show, much like the Oscars are for the film industry, or Michelin stars are for our deserving chefs and restaurateurs. This year's GPHG 2022 awards was held on Thursday 10 November in Geneva's Théâtre du Léman, and were hosted by French actor Edouard Baer.

The winners are chosen after careful deliberation by the GPHG Academy, a group of 650 key figures in the profession globally, and the 2022 Jury, which this year is chaired by renowned author and collector Nick Foulkes.

This year's ultimate prize, the "Aiguille d'Or", was rewarded to MB&F for the LM Sequential EVO. It was a well-deserving night for Max Busser, as the watchmaker's M.A.D.1 RED was also awarded in the "Challenge" category.

Hermès also came away as one of the big winners this year with two prizes for their latest complication in the Arceau Le Temps Voyageur. The wonderful and romantic interpretation of the world-time function came away with both the Men's and Women's

Introducing The Louis Vuitton Tambour Spin Time Air Quantum and Tambour Slim Vivienne Jumping Hours

By Wei Koh

It's funny but when watch pundits toss around terms like horological audacity and technical innovation, the name Louis Vuitton doesn't come up immediately. But the truth is that over the last 20 years of the Tambour's history, the famous malletier has fired off a multitude of pretty damn epic watchmaking salvos. Want irrefutable evidence? Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, I present the 2013 Tambour Twin Chrono, one of the greatest achievements in the realm of the mechanical chronograph. What the hell is it? OK, sit down, strap in and be prepared to be blown away, for the Twin Chrono — I love how minimalistically LV named its profound horological achievements — is a chronograph that allows you to time two simultaneous events. It has central hour, minute and seconds hands.

The Royal Oak 'Jumbo' Takes Flight

By Jeremiah Chan

The Low-down

Earlier in the year, Audemars Piguet (AP) launched a deluge of releases – 34 to be exact – to celebrate the epic milestone that is the 50th birthday of the Royal Oak. Whatever opinions you may have on the present scarcity of this icon and what some may define as delusion in secondary market prices, we should put our pitchforks aside, check our disdain at the door and truly celebrate what the Royal Oak represents – an incredible piece of design that has managed to not only remain relevant but has defined the current design output of the industry and in many ways watch collecting itself.

Out of the 34 new releases, from chronographs to flying tourbillons, from case sizes of 37mm to 41mm, all everyone wanted to know was what the new time and date only, 39mm Royal Oak 'Jumbo' would look like. And AP did not disappoint. The Jumbo now holds the designation 16202 and there were subtle changes made to the UK-based independent watch specialist The Limited Edition (TLE) was founded in 2015 to offer the emerging indie collector community high-quality, small-run independent watches. Under the watchful eye of industry veteran and GPHG Academy member Pietro Tomajer, TLE curates a selection of watches from established independent brands, as well as championing new and emerging talent in partnership with the AHCI. TLE has now launched a collaboration with German brand Kudoke, with a limited edition of the Kudoke 2 inspired by the work of legendary English watchmaker Thomas Mudge.

Grönefeld 1941 - Not Just a Chronograph...It's a Grönograaf!

By Ross Povey

The Grönefeld horological dynasty stretches back 110 years, when Johan Grönefeld, the grandfather of the current owners, began his watchmaking career in Oldenzaal in the east of the Netherlands in 1912. 96 years later, brothers Bart and Tim Grönefeld established Grönefeld watches and quickly gained a reputation for innovative design and thoughtful movement refinements. Still based in the family's hometown of Oldenzaal, the brand has been recognised by the GPHG on two occasions. In keeping with their signature flavour, the brand has now unveiled the Grönefeld 1941 Grönograaf and it's a beauty...

Furlan Marri Introduces Permanent Collection of Mecha-quartz Models

By Felix Scholz

Over the last few years, Furlan Marri has quickly made its mark as an incredibly exciting brand and one with a remarkably relevant proposition. Founders Andrea Furlan and Hamad Al Marri built their brand around the democratization of horology. This vision comes at a time when the traditional staples of luxury watchmaking — let alone the mid-century designs that inspire Furlan Marri's watches — are hard to acquire for the average watch enthusiast.

Furlan Marri's solution was to make affordable watches for the next generation. And, for the sake of the price tag,

Introducing the H. Moser & Cie. Streamliner Tourbillon Vantablack®

By Ross Povey

There are very few more luxurious and elegant combinations than black and gold; jewelry, watches, cars and even guitars all look stunning in the livery. Those of a certain age will remember the Beverly Hillbillies theme tune lyrics where Jed Clampett first discovers oil on his estate and it's referred to "Black gold, Texas Tea". OK, maybe just me – but you get the point. It's rich and it just works! Moser is giving its integrated bracelet sports watch the black and gold treatment and so there's no surprise that the new Streamliner is a winner!

We are all now well familiar with H Moser & Cie, a brand that was founded in 1828, when the brand was founded

A contender in "Artistic Crafts".

The preeminent – and perhaps only international – awards for watchmaking, Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG), has just announced the competing timepieces of 2022. We are please that one of own editions, the Kudoke 2 "Zodiac", is competing in "Artistic Crafts".

Created last year for the 10th anniversary of SJX Watches, the Kudoke 2 "Zodiac" is a candidate alongside marques like Voutilainen and Hermes in a category that calls for "exceptional mastery of one or several artistic techniques such as enamelling, lacquering, engraving, guilloché (engine-turning), skeleton-working, etc."

By Revolution

We kick off #GenevaWatchDays with an intimate chat with De Bethune CEO Pierre Jacques. Pierre and Wei discussed the significance and evolution of the DB25 perpetual calendar, and its new 40mm titanium case.

De Bethune is loved for its distinctive design elements, like its flame blued finishes, timepieces that incorporate shock absorbers not just on the balance wheel but along the bridge as well, its three-dimensional moonphase displays, and the lightest tourbillon cage in the world that weighs just 1.6g. The brand recently revealed a new meteorite dial iteration of the De Bethune DB25, which was first released in 2018 and won the GPHG chronometry prize.

It has been 10 years since Rexhep founded AkriviA and in that time he has had to overcome significant challenges, being an immigrant from Kosovo, and the initial difficulty of having people appreciate his vision for watchmaking. The quality of his movement finishing and decoration is now regarded as one of the best in the

Kudoke Skeleton Plays a Starring Role in Last Looks

By Suan Futt Yeo

How the Kudoke Skeleton watch ended up as an important part in the Hollywood film Last Looks, and what happens after, is a story in itself. It certainly didn't begin as how we imagine most movie-watch tie-ups to be, from a handshake between marketing directors. Indeed, we're not sure if Kudoke even has one, as the German watch company is essentially a husband-and-wife team plus three watchmakers. After working with renowned brands like Breguet, Blancpain and Glashutte Original, Stefan Kudoke decided to become an independent watchmaker and founded his eponymous brand in 2008. Since then, he has been producing utterly stunning hand-engraved watches executed with a level of flair that gets oil paintings framed on very nice walls. His hard work was validated in 2019 when his Kudoke 2 won the "Petite Aiguille" Prize for watches valued between CHF 3,500 and CHF 10,000 at the GPHG.

GPHG 2022: Big Wins For Independent Watchmaking And Modern Classics

Darren Ho
11 November 2022

This year's GPHG awards celebrate a golden age in watchmaking with modern fine watchmaking icons.

If this year's Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) is anything to go by, the industry is back with a vengeance and pouring all its creativity into a new era of fine watchmaking. Throughout the year, we've seen remarkable timepieces being released. The entries for each of the 21 categories in this year's awards demonstrate that even more explicitly.

With two new awards compared with last year's edition, GPHG 2022 was its biggest ever. The new categories were for Mechanical Clock and Chronometry, and not only were the nominees for the former varied, creative, and impressive, the winner was even more outstanding. Here are some of the most notable wins of the year.

Creativity at its finest: Six of our favourite MB&F watches

For the regular readers of Deployant, we think that MB&F is perhaps a brand that needs no further introduction.

MB&F, which debuted in 2005, recently just launched its 20th calibre – which incidentally won the “Aiguille d’Or” award at the most recent Grand Prix d’Horlogerie de Genève (“GPHG”). Even with the collaborations and prowess of the independent watch manufacturer, it is no mean feat for the effervescent Maximillian Büsser, the head honcho of the eponymous brand, and his watchmaking friends.

Having recently visited the newly opened MB&F Lab by The Hour Glass, which currently displays all the twenty MB&F calibres that were produced in the last 17 years, we were awe-struck by the brilliance of Max and his team. Even though we have been exposed to many of MB&F’s watches, seeing all 20 pieces at a single location is mind-boggling, to say the least. It also reminded the author of his first encounter with the world of independent watchmaking many years ago, with the then-esoteric Horological Machine 3.

We think that there is no better way to pay homage to Max and MB&F, on this special milestone, than to feature some of our favourite watches from the brand. Although, truth to be told, narrowing down to just six pieces is not exactly the simplest of task around....

Moser's Decade-Long Journey to The Rainbow

By Ross Povey

Moser was on-trend and in tune with the horological zeitgeist of 2020 when it launched its integrated bracelet sports watch, the Streamliner. Then the Covid-era saw many watches reach dizzy heights that we all look back on with both head-scratching bewilderment and, hopefully, relief that we didn't go too deep into the madness. The Streamliner was something new, however, and far from being an established behemoth from the pen of Genta, it was a watch that was as fresh as it was important for the brand. And now Moser has rewarded it with the ultimate sports watch facelift that they all want when they grow up; it wears a rainbow.

It has been a phenomenal year for the watch world. To round off 2022, we are celebrating the hits, the wonders, the visionaries and all the people in watchmaking who have made it so memorable in our annual Revolution Awards and Power Lists.

When people ask me why I love Trilobe's Une Folle Journée, I compare it with Miles Davis' Kind of Blue or Picasso's Les Femmes d'Alger. It is a seminal work that defines its creator's singularity, announcing an all-new voice that is wonderfully and devastatingly unique. The timepiece frees Gautier Massonneau's circular disks from the two-dimensional confines of the dial and has them hovering like miniature spacecraft above a baseplate

VAN CLEEF & ARPELS
Fortaine Aux Oiseaux Automaton

Thật khó có thể tin nhà kim hoàn nước Pháp có thể tạo ra tuyệt tác đồng hồ để bàn ngoạn mục tựa như chứa cả một thế giới thần tiên bên trong. Ở mặt bên của đế, một chiếc lông chuyển động từng dần theo thang thời gian. Khi đến 12 giờ, nó sẽ quay trở lại điểm xuất phát để lập lại chính xác hành trình đó trong nửa ngày tiếp theo. Khi được kích hoạt - tức đa năm lần liên tiếp - bộ máy tự động sẽ "biểu diễn" một cảnh tượng huy hoàng trong khoảng một phút: nước trong lưu vực bắt đầu gợn sóng, một bông hoa súng từ từ hé nở trong khi chú chuồn chuồn bay vút lên không trung. Những con chim ở rìa của lưu vực thức dậy và cất cao tiếng hót nhờ vào một bộ phận mô phỏng âm thanh đặc biệt. Thậm chí, những chú chim bé nhỏ này còn di chuyển đôi cánh để xích lại gần nhau hơn. Khi "cảnh phim" này kết thúc, con chuồn chuồn trở về nơi ẩn náu, những chú chim về vị trí ban đầu và bông hoa súng duyên dáng khép cánh lại.

The manual-winding movement in this prestigious piece features a constant-force mechanism—allowing for a consistent flow of power regardless of the level of winding—and a tourbillon as one unit on a single axis. This affords the calibre many benefits, including no loss or change in the torque, and a power reserve of up to 50 hours. This calibre 9STL is showcased through a skeletonised dial, while the escapement's sound presents a once-per-second impulse owing to the constant-force mechanism. Housed within a 43.8mm case in 950 platinum and 'brilliant hard' titanium, the watch comes with a calf leather strap.

Bulgari Serpenti Misteriosi High

This high-jewellery masterpiece features a harmonic medley of crafts—hand-engraving, lacquering, and gem-setting (of diamonds and rubellites), used mainly for the hexagonal scales and eyes of the serpentine coiled bracelet watch. The more literal interpretation of the snake's head features a removable watch in the snake's mouth, which can be opened by pulling on the snake's tongue. Not only is it fascinating that the watch can be removed from the mouth, this feature also has a functional purpose as well. It enables you to rotate and face the other direction, so that you can ensure that the dial always faces the wearer—whether they wear it on their left hand or right. Being able to place the watch facing both ways also allows the wearer to have the snake facing them or away from them. The Piccolissimo calibre within is actually a 30-hour mechanical, with the crown on the reverse to be used for winding, by rotating clockwise, and rotating counter-clockwise for setting time.

Arnold & Son Perpetual Moon Eclipse I

Before the Luna Magna came along for Arnold & Son, the Perpetual Moon was their flagship moon phase series, known for its oversized moon display. This 18-piece limited edition in 38mm white gold is a stunning jewelled rendition of that template, with a dial made from very fine blue aventurine, cut out like lace in shapes that are an extension of the gem-set starry motif at eight o'clock. This motif has been encrusted with mother-of-pearl fragments in white and blue, pink and blue sapphires, and diamonds, while the bezel, lugs and crown alone are set with 90 brilliant-cut diamonds. The sky disc, seen through the cut-outs and aperture, is made from mother-of-pearl, with lunar discs featuring ruthenium crystals, and hand hand-painted constellations. This gorgeous poetic timepiece runs on a 90-hour manual-winding calibre.

"It is time for the fine watchmaking world to rediscover India, and for India to engage with the fascinating world of fine watchmaking," stated Yashovardhan Saboo, founder and managing director of Ethos Limited, at the opening of the GPHG 2022 exhibition. It really captured the essence of what the 'Ethos X GPHG' weekend was about. A coming-together of GPHG representatives, industry professionals, watch collectors and enthusiasts, and Ethos representatives, the weekend was kicked off with a reception at the Swiss embassy in New Delhi, on October 7, 2022. Switzerland's ambassador to India and Bhutan, Dr Ralf Heckner was present, as he welcomed us all to his 'home'. He addressed the guests from the stage set up on the lawns of the Swiss embassy, and made a reference to India recently marking 75 years of independence. "We are celebrating not only 75 years of India's independence; we are also celebrating 75 years of the Indo-Swiss friendship," said Heckner, who even commented on the value of the GPHGs. "They are more like the Olympics of the fine watch industry," he said, referring to a presentation made earlier likening the awards to Hollywood's Academy Awards.

The 22nd GPHGs (Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève) unfolded on November 10 in Geneva, Switzerland, with the big prize going to MB&F for the first time. Here's a look at the highlights from the evening and a complete list of this year's winners of watchmaking's greatest honour

Often referred to as the 'Oscars' of the watch industry, the GPHGs (Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève) have also been called watchmaking's 'Olympics', by Dr Ralf Heckner, Switzerland's ambassador to India. This year's edition unravelled on November 10, 2022, at a ceremony in Geneva's Théâtre du Léman, hosted by French actor Édouard Baer. It was a night of celebrating watchmaking, as industry persons recognised each other's work and achievements from the past year. A total of 21 prizes were handed out, as the winners from among the previously-announced nominees (for most categories) were revealed. The Aiguille d'Or Grand Prix—which is the biggest prize for 'best in show', or what you could call the watch of the year—went to MB&F for the first time ever, for their Legacy Machine Sequential Evo watch. Bulgari, who won this Aiguille d'Or (or 'golden needle') distinction last year for their Octo Finissimo Perpetual Calendar, did not end up empty-handed though. They took home two other prizes—the jewellery prize for the Serpenti Misteriosi, as well

A 2022 Round-Up For The Watch Fraternity : 'Twas Quite A Year

DECEMBER 30, 2022 | 0 SHARE | 0 NO COMMENTS

by Karishma Kaper

2022, what a year it has been for the watch fraternity. Every year, we gather around over a glass of wine and look back at the year that was. This could have been better? That was spectacular? Did they really do that? For me personally, it was a good year. From new watch launches, introduction of new materials and technologies to a series of events that put India on the map, giving the country the true recognition it deserves. As we approach the end of 2022, we have put together a few highlights that have made 2022 a year to remember.

A topic we just ignore this year is the rapidly growing pre-loved market. A recent report published by Deloitte claims that by 2030 the pre-owned market is likely to grow to CHF 35 billion and make up more than half of the primary watch market. This growth will be supported by brands launching new preowned offerings, the expansion of existing channels and consumers looking for discounted and discontinued timepieces.

And they were right. Recently Rolex announced its very own Certified Pre-Owned programme. The Rolex Certified Pre-Owned seal that comes with your watch will symbolise its status as a certified second-hand Rolex watch. This exclusive title attests to its authenticity on the date of purchase and proper functioning, and is accompanied by an international two-year guarantee. We even caught up with industry expert

The 2022 Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) awards ceremony will take place on November 10 at the Théâtre du Léman in Geneva, for the 22nd consecutive year. In the months leading up to this date, the more than 500 members of the GPHG Academy will take part in the various stages, from suggesting models worthy to compete through to pre-selecting the nominated watches and then casting the final vote to establish the prize list, alongside the jury – itself drawn from the Academy. The 2022 list of GPHG Academy members will be unveiled in March. Watch brands will be invited to submit their entries for this edition of the GPHG from May 2022.

The GPHG Academy

Now in its third year of existence, the GPHG Academy has over 650 members. Rapidly adopted by the watchmaking world, this vast network encompassing ambassadors of the passion for watchmaking is growing in number and skills to reinforce its role in highlighting the industry. A success story in several respects, the GPHG Academy has become a valuable means of sharing and promoting watchmaking culture, while at the same time democratizing the nomination and voting process. The members of the Academy take part in the various stages of the competition: first of all, they are invited to propose timepieces for the competition; once the brands have made their entries, they select the nominated timepieces, then take part in a second vote in the autumn to determine the award-winners alongside the jury.

GPHG 2022 will take place on November 10, 2022, and it has announced significant new features. A new "Mechanical Clock" category opens the competition to longcase clocks and table clocks. The Chronometry Prize is back to reward a timepiece – officially certified by a recognised inspection authority – that stands out for its remarkable precision timekeeping performance. A sustainable approach may be rewarded with the Innovation Prize. The 650 members of the GPHG Academy are invited to propose the eligible watches they would like to see take part in the competition this year. The brands will ultimately decide on the participation of the proposed timepieces and will be able to enter other models in the competition from May onwards.
